

Expanded Trade Program Urged By MacKinnon

"Every aspect of our national life rests on our foreign trade," said Mr. MacKinnon. "That trade could not be abandoned, or even seriously curtailed without inviting disaster and ruin."

He said: "Cut down that trade and you lengthen the lines of unemployment all across Canada. Surely that lesson has been burned into our memory and our conscience by the tragic years of the depression."

HE WAS RECIPROCAL.

"It is simply axiomatic to believe that Canada can be enriched by any policy which seeks to improve the other countries," he said, "and which prescribes a misguided doctrine of the quality of something better than believing in an economic world which leads straight to economic disaster for all Canada."

"... In our common plan for the post-war period nothing should take precedence over our efforts to first work for the preservation, even in the face of new conditions that will prevail, the greatest possible outlet for the Great Britain for the products of Canadian agriculture and industry," he added.

While Canada would have need of merchant fleet to promote and foster our trade and to provide shipping requirements for national security," it would not, he said, have to be large or government-owned. As in former times, the general shipping policy should be based on fair competition.

Prosperity Depends On Foreign Trade

By E. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Bureau

OTTAWA, May 17.—From two authoritative sources in Ottawa, Canadian people obtained warning that future prosperity will depend upon the maintenance of free foreign trade, not at the highest level in the nation's history.

Graham F. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, told the house of commons on banks and commerce, that 30 per cent of the national income of the country depends directly on foreign trade. In a statement on post-war financial and economic policy, which the committee had received, Mr. Towers planned foreign trade in first place as the key to Canada's national well-being, and said that no major war planning policy could solve future problems.

In Hamilton, Ontario, James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, gave a similar, but more emphatic statement, yet by any member of the government in the present Canadian trade position and prospects.

"Every aspect of our national life rests on our foreign trade," said Mr. MacKinnon, in an address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, RE-ORGANIZATION.

The minister disclosed important re-organization in the department of trade and commerce, and the creation of a new division of imports.

"A sound and well balanced trade must take into account a proper balance between imports and exports," he said.

Now, at unprecedented levels, Canada's foreign trade is 100 per cent abnormal and temporary wartime trade, he said, and 20 per cent is normal and permanent. The latter sector, he said, will be the basis of our future. "We shall have to rebuild the whole structure of our export trade for the future."

Like Mr. MacKinnon, Mr. Towers touched on the need for Canada to be prepared to accept imports. The Bank of Canada had no authority to discuss the distribution of goods, he said, and it was obvious that while during the war the people were trained in an objective under federal initiative, in time of peace, there would be a number of initiatives and initiative would be decided among several governments, federal and provincial. But high income and high employment must take foreign trade into account.

"No possible increase in domestic production alone," he said, "will make possible high employment. We must do everything possible to increase overseas markets."

MOST IMPORTANT.

The MacKinnon speech at Hamilton was recognized here as one of the most important government statements on postwar prospects.

For some time, Canada's total export trade had been running at a level of $1,000,000,000 compared with $1,375,000,000 in the same period of 1943.

This trade was reflected in every economic barometer used to measure national prosperity.

"Why has Canadian employment been so constant at peak levels? Why has our national income increased to a point beyond impossible a few years ago? Why has the distribution of bondholdings and bank savings among Canadians of all classes established the highest records in our history? The answer is unarguably, it is that the Canadian market overseas to the extent never before experienced, for the products of her agriculture, her industry in all branches, her mines, forests and fisheries."

Production alone, said Mr. MacKinnon, had been increased by at least 30 per cent.

Blood Plasma Substance Curbs Measles Epidemics

By FRANK KAREY
WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)

A new medical weapon for preventing measles epidemics has been developed from a substance extracted from blood plasma given by volunteer donors in the Red Cross program, the United States war department disclosed yesterday.

The possibility was suggested that the same substance might be effective against other contagious diseases, including diphtheria, scarlet fever and typhoid fever.

The material is a protein separated from blood plasma and known as "gamma globulin." Globulin is obtained from the blood of persons who have had measles, scarlet fever and typhoid fever.

The work grew out of the fundamental studies on blood plasma carried on by Edwin J. Cohn, a leading authority on the chemistry of the blood, at Harvard medical school. Cohn succeeded in separating plasma by chemical means into its components.

Data indicating the effectiveness of the material has been obtained on more than 1,000 individuals. Most of the work was done in army camps.

Seven Known Dead in Three Missing Planes

HALIFAX, May 17.—(CP)

Finding of four dead airmen on a life raft off the Newfoundland coast today, the first known toll in three training aircraft which have been missing since the war broke out.

Two airmen are known to be safe, while an unaccounted number believed to be between two and five, are still missing.

Eastern air command headquarters announced that the life-raft had been picked up at Mach's Point in St. George's Bay north of Port Aux Basques, Nfld. A naval craft was proceeding to the vicinity and an aircraft was standing by at a nearby air base.

TWO BRITONS SAFE.

Two airmen came out of the bushland of the Gaspé Peninsula last night to report that three companions in their plane had died when the aircraft crashed.

Wounded by 21 days of wandering in the woods, the two known survivors of a possible dozen airmen, were taken to a hospital at Gaspé where the R.C.A.F. prepared to send them to the United Kingdom. The search for the still missing men spread over a wide area.

Death of the three men in the Gaspé crash were reported by the survivors to a British military officer stationed in the village of Barabouche, Nfld. The plane was reported to have crashed in a field near the village. The plane had been in the air for about 10 hours when it crashed.

Allied prisoners of war, including two British airmen and one Canadian, fled down the gangplank of the liner Graciosa today to the exchange of 919 British, Canadian and American prisoners of war and civilians for 715 Germans.

The Graciosa carried 338 wounded German prisoners and 375 civilians. Aboard the Graciosa were 18 American service men and 17 civilians, including some wounded. The civilians are all from North and South America.

LONDON, May 17.—(CP)—A Reuters report from Barcelona said the son of Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, was among Allied prisoners of war exchanged there today.

C.N. May Abandon Vermilion Field

OTTAWA, May 17.—(CP)—Transport Minister Michael said last night in the Commons that a Canadian National Railways program of drilling for oil in the Vermilion, Alta., field had been abandoned.

The wells were not producing enough to supply locomotives used in the area. So far 29 wells had been drilled and 17 were in production, which was low, averaging 12 barrels per pumping day. In February 6,538 barrels were produced while the C.N.R. needed about 100,000 a year in this area.

Saskatchewan Tops Goal of $36,000,000 In Victory Loan

REGINA, May 17.—(CP)—Saskatchewan has topped its new $36,000,000 objective in the Victory Loan campaign, announced last night. Total subscriptions were $36,400,000.

It will be several days before final reports are in from all units and when they are the total will be "substantially in excess of $36,000,000," Mr. McKee's statement said.

The total last night meant the province had raised 140 per cent of its original quota of $26,000,000.

A communique said the Chinese troops had cut the main road to the town directly south of Malakka. The further tightening of a pocket around Japanese in that area.

Welfare Group Must Build Homes, Not Just Houses, Conference Is Told

WINNIPEG, May 17.—(CP)—Dr. S. H. Prince of Halifax told a housing meeting of the Canadian Conference on Social Work here today that as long as Canadian cities have apartment housing conditions, welfare workers will be fighting a losing battle.

"The state, school and church must join hands to build homes, in Nova Scotia we have long been aware of the housing of our communities, not houses."

The common people of Canada have the opportunity and out-lets they will develop untrammeled social and economic conditions. They will build more than new houses, they will build new lives."

MAKE OPPORTUNITIES

"We must make possible in our homes the opportunities and outlets for the free development of a free people."

The home has been called the cradle of democracy. "If we wish to enjoy this democracy, we must be willing to assume responsibility. If we wish to enjoy privileges, we must be willing to assume obligations."

A. M. Moore, of Dauphin, Man., suggested that rural people centre their homes in one community. "Rural housing problem is just as bad, actually and potentially, as the urban problem. The solution may lie in planned rural communities."

Dr. Kenneth H. Rogers of Toronto advocated a committee of youth services as a new unit of city administration. The department would be headed by a youth commissioner.

Dr. Rogers outlined a four-point program to check the rise of juvenile delinquency on a national basis.

1. A properly organized system of juvenile courts on a national basis.

2. Adequate and suitable recreational facilities.

3. Adequate and suitable recreational facilities.

4. Adequate and suitable recreational facilities.

Canadian farmers for five years have responded splendidly to Canada's urgent need of food.

This year the need is greater—and workers available on the farms are even fewer.

City, town and village folk must help the farmer to give us the food we need.

For our Armed Services—

For our home population—

For the United Nations—

For rescued peoples.

If you can spare your holidays, or odd days, or even half days to assist farmers, don't fail to do so this year.

If you can take steady work on a farm, by all means do so.

Your services in the farming industry are this year vitally necessary to victory.

ed. The right to issue credit gave the chartered banks as much power as the Bank of Canada. The chartered banks could buy a $100 bond if they held only a $10 bank note in new money.

Mr. McGee said the banks alone appeared to have this power. Mr. Towers said the banks were authorized to engage in the business of banking by parliament, and their powers were set forth. A customer selling a $100 bond to the banks had the right to demand payment in $100 Bank of Canada notes and would get it.

Mr. McGee said the chartered banks could organize to increase the volume of credit in Canada.

DEPENDENT ON POLICY

Mr. Towers said the volume of the medium of exchange depended on the policy of the Bank of Canada which depended on government policy.

Mr. McGee: "The Bank of Canada bonuses that monopoly by the issuance of Bank of Canada money."

Mr. Towers: "No. Earlier I said that in order to secure Bank of Canada cash the chartered banks had to sell securities or incur a liability. The word 'bonus' is inappropriate."

Mr. McGee: "We disagree on that."

He continued that it was "hocus-pocus" to say the power of the banks was limited by a check on the bank notes they might issue.

"Last-Trip" Ace Destroys Five Enemy Planes

about half of any squadron of the air defence of Great Britain, of which the City of Edmonton flies for a part.

The squadron altogether has destroyed 118 enemy planes, including those caught on the ground.

Scherf and Flaynson returned to base with their Mosquito damaged by flak and with 15 enemy planes which Scherf said were caused by running into a flock of birds on the homeward flight.

"IT WAS INCREDIBLE . . ."

"We caught a HELL in the air over the Baltic first and put him down," said the Australian. "A little later we ran into a whole collection of German aircraft and destroyed four in five minutes. It was incredible . . ."

The last time Scherf took a flying holiday he shared in the destruction of two planes in the air and the burning of nine on the ground with P.O. J. C. O'Brien and another previous trip he destroyed two enemy planes and left three burning.

Southern End Of Gustav Line Is Destroyed

A German communiqué said Nazi troops were carrying out "desperate" movements according to plan on the main Italian front in fighting the movement of the "first division" of the last World War.

Mounting Allied artillery fire from the Anzio beachhead on the Tiber added, "leads to the expectation that a large-scale attack will be launched there soon."

NEAR HITLER LINE

The German-controlled Paris radio reported the Wehrmacht had achieved a local breakthrough in the Liri valley, where the Eighth army was said to be attempting to retake the Cassino road.

While French troops under Gen. Alphonse Juin capitalized their gains south of the Liri valley, American forces at the front of the Garigliano valley seized Mt. San Angelo, a 4,000-foot peak overlooking the Liri line.

The advance brought the Americans to the outer defenses of the line itself at the westernmost point yet reached by the Allied forces in their six-day offensive.

American troops in the Tyrrhenian sector captured Sciarra on the coast road without opposition and drove on toward Formello, another town of the Hitler line another four miles to the west. Castel-Lonardo, two miles northwest of Formello, was another mountain point under observation, also was taken by the Americans.

FRENCH ADVANCE

Some six miles to the north, the French captured the Hitler line at the base of Mt. D'Orto after an advance of more than 4,000 yards over two miles—southwest from San Giorgio toward Esperia, one of the main strongholds in the line, and believed the site of German headquarters for the area.

The French overwhelmed bitter enemy resistance in their push along the San Giorgio-Esperia road, which they penetrated as far as the cross roads at San Giorgio, two miles northwest of Esperia. Other French troops moving west from Anzio seized high ground including Mt. Chivaria, 2½ miles south of Esperia.

An official spokesman disclosed that the Germans had thrown reinforcements drawn from training camps in the rear areas, including the 15th Panzer Grenadier Division, into the battle near Anzio valley. Elements of the first parachute division northwest of Cassino also were said to have been shifted to this front.

Airplanes do not have speedometers, they have air speed indicators, which record the speed of a plane relative to the air.

Allies Not "Standing Still" Bombs Greater Than Six-Tonners May Soon Batter Axis Centres

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(CP)—Bombs heavier and more destructive than the six-ton "blockbusters" now being dropped with deadly precision on strategic centres of the invasion area, may be sent against the Axis before the war is over, Air Commodore Patrick Huskinson of the R.A.F. said yesterday.

Missing

"We are not standing still," he said at a press conference. "Nor are we in America standing still. We are always trying to improve."

But he warned that developing the possibility of Germany producing something equally new and destructive.

Commodore Huskinson, now 47 years old and blind from the results of a German bomb hitting a reinforced concrete building in which he was working in 1940, was director of research and development in the ministry of aircraft production.

SAW POSSIBILITIES

He saw the possibility of increasing air-raid efficiency by using heavier ammunition. Under his direction the heading of development through the stages from 2,000-pounders through to the 12,000-pound monster which have been raining on German targets since last December.

Value of these monsters was their wide area of destruction which offered the possibility of a "neutron" by the bomb-aimer. They also enabled fewer bombers to greater damage.

"We are waiting eagerly to see what they will do to the ramshackle buildings of Tokyo," Huskinson said.

About the largest bombs (Germans had dropped on Britain) were 5,000-pounds and there had not been any of these recently.

LEVEL CITY BLOCK

"I know from experience what even that size bomb can do to a reinforced concrete building," Commodore Huskinson said.

He pointed to a 12,000-pound bomb with a direct hit on a city block.

Huskinson came here last year with a British mission of experts to share bomb secrets with American armament authorities. He will return shortly to London.

lords and common law week that the Empire has weathered all storms in its present form and there is no need for any changes.

MILD COMPROMISE

It is believed, however, that the compromise agreed on a mild compromise, which, in effect, means that the existing system of periodic meetings, which, in effect, means will handle the interchange of the various Commonwealth governments. Their deliberations will be assisted, when necessary, by experts from the various capitals.

The conference came to an agreement that when big issues are involved the simplest form of discussion would be for the prime ministers themselves to take a hand as they have done in the past, keeping each other advised on all major questions of mutual interest.

The compromise means that Canada will be able to conduct her external affairs exactly as her own interests dictate without being bound by keeping the other nations of the Commonwealth advised of her attitude—which Canada does automatically in the interest of maintaining a mutuality of confidence and solidarity within the Empire.

ENHANCES PRESTIGE

United Kingdom parliamentarians and the general public regard Canada's prestige as greatly enhanced as a result of the conference since the Dominion now assumes a vastly greater international role as spokesman for the British Commonwealth among the nations of the world. This she will do with the approval and backing of the rest of the Empire.

A formal communiqué on the results of the conference is expected to be issued shortly.

Commenting on the conference, the Daily Telegraph today says that "what marks the event is the greater than any of the previous meetings is that at this critical stage of world development, it showed the British Commonwealth united, vital and coherent, ready to take a great part in organizing larger units in the future of mankind."

Agree on Rule For Belgium, Netherlands

LONDON, May 17.—(CP)—British and the United States yesterday completed arrangements with the governments of Belgium and the Netherlands for the civil administration of their European homelands as they are liberated by Allied invading forces.

Simultaneously, it was announced here and in Washington that Russia and the United States have concluded similar arrangements with Norway and the civil administration of that country when it is liberated.

SOVIET DRIVE HINTED

Inclusion of Russia in the Norwegian agreement suggested the possibility of a Russian drive into Finland extending to the far north of the tip of Finland's neighbor, Norway.

The agreements with the three governments were all alike in substance in that they provided:

First, that the Allied commander-in-chief, General Eisenhower, should have "supreme responsibility and authority over civil administration" to the extent necessary to military requirements.

And, second, civil administration shall be turned over to each of the responsible governments as quickly as the military situation permits.

A normal agreement has been announced between the Allied powers and the French National Committee Monday proclaimed itself to be the provisional government of France.

New Plan for Summer School This Province

The provincial department of education has transferred to the University of Alberta faculty of education all its summer-school courses except those in shop and general shop subjects and a refresher course for former teachers. It was announced Wednesday by Dr. H. C. Newland, supervisor of schools.

The new arrangement, which is on an experimental basis, is a step towards placing teacher-training on a university level. Prospective enrolment for the summer courses, which begin on July 17 and end on Aug. 28, has been set at 500 persons.

"Most of the normal school staff will become university lecturers and instructors during the summer session," Dr. Newland stated. "All courses, whether undergraduate or graduate, will carry credit towards a degree in education."

"At the same time the courses will meet departmental requirements for permanent certificates and for special certificates in music, art, home economics, physical education, commercial subjects and kindergarten and primary education."

Two years ago the university education faculty, at the request of the department of education, set up a three-year undergraduate program, leading to a bachelor of education degree and a high school certificate.

The new arrangement which starts this summer is the first move towards a unified plan for teacher-training, in which the bachelor of education degree will be the terminal stage in training for every certificate, whether elementary, intermediate or high school," Dr. Newland said.

The program for the meeting was arranged by new members inducted into the club recently and included the presentation of an original script by the Rev. Daniel J. O'Rourke, and a high school program, Ed. A. Hamilton presided as chairman.

Reports were made on the progress of the Voluntary Work Committee of the club, which is contracting to do odd jobs, payment for which will go into the club's treasury. A goal of $200 to be raised by the end of July will be achieved if each member contributes three hours per week, it was stated.

President Maxwell Dewar announced that a golf evening will be held next Tuesday at 6 o'clock at Prince Rupert Golf Course.

DOCTH DIX SAYS—

Girl Must Continue Career for Own Sake

If Husband Failed to Return From War, or Came Back Maimed, Doctor's Income Would be Needed for Home

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married a little over a year and expect my baby in the summer. My husband is fighting overseas and he wants me to give up my work. Last year I graduated from medical school and this June I will finish my internship. I spent many years and a great deal of money in acquiring my profession and I love my work as only a doctor can. My husband may not come back and with a child to rear I think I should have a way to support myself and the child in case anything happens to him. Don't you think I am right?

WORRIED YOUNG DOCTOR

Answer: Careers and marriage don't seem to mix very harmoniously for women but under the circumstances I think you are quite right in not wanting to give up your profession. Because, as you say, your husband may not come back from the war, or he may come back wounded, and need time and care and the comforts and ease of mind that money brings to enable him to recuperate and it will save the situation for you to be able to shoulder the family support in case of being a burden upon him.

One of the greatest drawbacks of being a woman is that if she has talent and ambition and has spent years of hard work fitting herself for a career, she nearly always has to give it up when she marries. Marriage is an asset to a man if he marries the right sort of wife, because she gives him the happiness of love, the comforts of home, and draws about him the people who help him in his business. But when the woman with a career marries she falls between the stools of her work and her home, and generally makes a success of neither.

SHOULD TELL PARENTS

Dear Miss Dix: I am a boy in my teens and go to a military school. My Christian home is in the west. I was against the regulations of the school, but I didn't think it would matter if we kept it a secret. But now the girl wants to announce the marriage and, if she does it, will mean I will get kicked out of school.

I have tried to explain to her what it means, but she insists on telling. Says if she is willing to quit her education at high school I should be willing to quit mine at the military school.

What should I do? If I don't announce it, my wife will be mad at me and there is no telling what she will do. And, on the other hand, if I am an only child and I will nearly kill my parents, and they have given up so much for me I feel that I just can't hurt them.

BEST AGE

Dear Miss Dix: What age is suitable for a girl to ask the question of marriage? My parents want me to wait until I am 20, but I think I am long enough to wait.

Answer: Statistics show that girls who marry in their teens find the divorce rate very high. But those who wait until they are 20 or over. It takes more experience and time to adjust to married life. It is not too late to wait until you are 20 or over.

McKenney On Bridge

America's Card Authority
Third of a series of four articles on the Weiss slam convention.

The opening bid of two aces on the hand shown seeks definite control information. In this example, North holds the ace of trumps and the ace of spades, which are the two most important cards to make a success of making a slam. If he held only one of the ace of hearts.

Take advantage of stay-at-home days to transfer from the Weiss slam convention. These small floral motifs have many uses. Easy bid of embroidery do wonders! Pattern 727 contains a trans-his partner's response would be three hearts; with only the ace of spades, he would bid two spades. But with four of diamonds asks his partner if he holds the kind of suit that North shows this second-round control with the bid of five diamonds.

Now South can count 13 tricks—two spades, five hearts, two diamonds and four clubs. If he is playing rubber bridge, he will bid seven hearts in order to score the 100 honors in hearts; if he is playing tournament bridge, in which honors count, he will bid seven no trumps.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE NEVER ELDER

It makes me heartily glad to read of the continuous experiments a mother will make to cure the fussiness of her young baby without once thinking of making any change in its diet.

When a baby develops eczema on breast milk it is a food question which needs to be changed. It may be that alterations will have to be made in the diet of the mother. It may be that the baby is over-fed, or that he is allergic to some of the excesses it may be some external factor such as soaps, powders and soaps.

For the bottle baby who develops a rash on fresh cow's milk, there are several changes which may be helpful. Just to boil the milk for 10 or more minutes, hard on top of stove, may make it less of a problem. Sterilized evaporated milk or dried milk is a good choice, since the processing of these alters the protein sufficiently so that its irritating factors may be nullified.

The use of goat's milk, either fresh or evaporated, may cause digestive trouble for the child who is extremely sensitive to cow's milk. It may not always be a cure but it is well worth a trial. Goat's milk can be used interchangeably in any fresh cow's formula and the canned milk can be used exactly as is any other evaporated milk.

If new foods have been added to the baby's diet and he develops a rash afterwards, the finger of suspicion is on them. This suspicion should be confirmed if after their elimination the rash faded and did not return.

All allergies and lotions are helpful in relieving the extreme itchiness which is part of the torture of eczema, and any medium which eases that torture should be used until the food or external irritants it comes and it itches and warms. But it is not cured permanently until the external irritants are removed or the child is eating in either case, North shows this second-round control with the bid of five diamonds.

Our belief, "What Mothers Should Know About Eczema," may be had by sending a check for $1.00 to the editorial department along with your request for it to Myrtle Never Elder in care of this newspaper.

Pair Married At Vermilion

VERMILION, May 17.—Vases of pink and white carnations and pointed palms made the ceremony in the United church, Vermilion, on May 17, 5 p.m., when Agnes Anna Fraser, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Fraser, of Airdrie, became the bride of Lawrence Dahl, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dahl of Wainwright. The Rev. E. Sinclair officiated.

As the organist, Miss Breda Nordstrom, played the Wedding March from Lohengrin, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of white sheer over silk tulle, modelled on semi-sleeves, the bodice being shirred. The waist was inserted with overlapping rows of narrow Valenciennes lace and finished with a row of tiny self-covered buttons from the centre of the sweetheart neckline to the waist. Her veil was of white net, floor-length, silk embroidered at the corners and attached to a halo shaped headpiece of embroidered net with a small cluster of orange blossoms at each side, the same veil which had been worn by her aunt at her wedding in Quebec 35 years ago.

GOLD PENDANT

Her single article of jewellery was a small gold pendant inset with a single sapphire surrounded with seed pearls. She wore silver satin slippers and carried a bouquet of red roses and maiden hair ferns.

Miss Enid Dahl, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and she wore a Harlequin blue sheer gown, floor-length with long black sleeves and high neckline, the fitted bodice embroidered in white and finished with tiny self-covered buttons.

Her head covering was a white chapel veil embroidered at the edges and caught to her hair with two white carnations, she wore white slippers and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

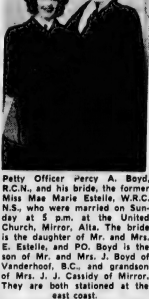

Clarence Fraser, brother of the bride, was best man and Edward Fraser was usher.

During the signing of the register, Miss Breda Nordstrom played on the electric organ, "On Peaceful Wings," the wedding party attended a banquet for 25 guests. The reception was held for 150 people.

The bride and bridegroom left for a short honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a tailored tunic suit, in horizon rose herringbone wool suit with heret self veil hat in hand and accessories.

Automotive Officials Visit City

Two leading officials of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Windsor, are city visitors. Mr. McGuire is sales manager for Chrysler and Plymouth cars and Fargo trucks. Mr. Shaw is general sales manager of the Dodge-Corpus division of the Chrysler Corporation. They are conferring with Chrysler dealers here. A. R. Merry, Regina, regional representative for the corporation, is accompanying Messrs. McGuire and Shaw.

Whipped—And Know It

AT AN EVACUATION HOSPITAL ON THE 5TH ARMY FRONT, ITALY, May 17—(AP)—Some of the casualties arriving at this hospital have cards around their necks labelling them as prisoners of war.

There is a curious contrast between these prisoners and those of Tunisia. These, staid and bearded, have had the vigorous completely knocked out of them. They are whipped and they know it.

The mass of German material left everywhere indicates that the first big advance was a stunning victory, perhaps greater than the first big battle.

War Stamps Sales

$2,090.50 May 1-15

War Savings Stamps sales to the two stamp bars in Edmonton from May 1 to 15 amounted to $2,090.50. Total sales for the same period at the 101 street bar was $17.25, and at the Post Office stamp bar for that period $70.25. Miscellaneous sales for the same period amounted to $66.10.

The bar on 101 street will be staffed for the same week by McDougall Church Women's Association, Women's Benevolent Association, High schools, Chatty Church, Western Rose Lodge, L.O.B.A., Loyal Protestant Women.

The Post Office stamp bar will be staffed for the same week by the McDougall Church Women's Association, Women's Benevolent Association, High schools, Chatty Church, Western Rose Lodge, L.O.B.A., Loyal Protestant Women.

May Get Early Action on Park

Early action between Canadian National Railways officials and the city commissioners in respect to the beautification of the approaches to the Macdonald hotel probably will result from a conference between Mayor John W. Fry and Commissioner Hodgson which took place on the city's visit to Montreal.

Commissioner Hodgson stated Wednesday that the city's representatives had told Mr. Vaughan that the city would operate fully with the railway in any beautification plan, but could not be expected to bear the entire cost of such plan.

Before the Magistrate

Found guilty of stealing

When disqualified from so doing, by reason of suspension of his driver's license, Roy A. McNeill, Edmonton, was sentenced to three months imprisonment by Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., Tuesday morning. On a second charge, of being intoxicated, he was fined $20 or 30 days, with the terms to run consecutively. The accused, while operating an auto on 104 avenue, May 5, ran into and damaged a parked vehicle, three witnesses stated.

Dave Ross, found guilty of being in possession of stolen property, was assessed $20 or 30 days. Restitution was ordered of a pair of American army pants, for which the accused stated he had paid $13 to an American private. The latter, denying having sold the trousers to the accused, said he didn't know the accused had the trousers in his possession.

Charge of possession of stolen property against Frank Green was adjourned to Thursday morning.

Morris R. Matwick, Brandon, Man., had made no restitution—no effort to live up to his agreement of several weeks back he had travelled from the province, after he had been told to stay in Edmonton, get a job, and make restitution for $200 worth of furniture, property of an Edmonton woman, the court was told. He was sentenced to four months with hard labor.

Two youths—only 15 years old, the other 16—went to the liquor store, bought some liquor on the permit held by the sister of the two, and consumed it. The first youth, the first was fined $20 or 30 days. The second boy, unable to explain this in a satisfactory manner, was remanded for a day.

HOLD EVERYTHING

Set Health Fees

"Yeah, they're cute, but they keep me busted buying records!"

Urges Provinces Set Health Fees

OTTAWA, May 17—(AP)—The Commonsense committee on social security decided yesterday that each province should be allowed to fix the amount of contribution each person would be obliged to pay under a health insurance plan. The committee made the decision while studying a draft health insurance bill which contained a suggestion that each adult be obliged to contribute annually.

The committee on social security left the entire matter of contribution to be decided upon when health insurance bills are finally acted upon by the Dominion and provinces.

The draft bill also contained a suggestion that persons in income "tail" pay would be exempted in addition to the first contribution of $1.00. The committee on social security was left in abeyance by the committee.

More Veterans From Overseas Arrive in City

Soldiers returned from overseas arrived in the city Tuesday included four men of the 1st Canadian Trench Battalion. Their unanimous opinion is that the people of Edmonton may well be proud of the job the boys are doing in Italy. The men are Cpl. E. P. Tannous, Cpl. E. Allan, Pte. E. Dombroski and Pte. P. Anderson.

CQMS. Tannous, who came through the battle of Ortona without a scratch, lost his right leg when he was a member of the wintering line. He refused to discuss his injury and would only say that he "tangled with a mortar shell."

He had high praise for the first aid and medical men, saying "they are really tops."

"BOYS CAN TAKE IT!"

Fighting in that Italian mud is a "jerk," he said, "but our boys can certainly take it."

Speaking of Edmonton men he had been with he made particular mention of Jim Stone and B.M. Ronnie Bovey.

CQMS. Tannous was born in Edmonton and has recently made his home in Mayrathorpe. There his wife and two children live. He is in the 1st Canadian Trench Battalion, 1939, and went overseas shortly after. Two years later he returned to Canada to instruct at Sarcee camp for six months and then went back to England. He served in North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

Cpl. E. Allan of 10822 st. street, saw 10 months of action in Sicily and Italy and returned to Canada because of lowered category. He didn't take part in the battle of Ortona but was in the campaign up to Comphania.

APPROPRIATE LETTERS

"The boys certainly appreciate getting letters, cigarettes and reading material," he said. "They make a big difference to your life over here."

Enlisting in November, 1939, Cpl. Allan went overseas the same year and thinks "it's really wonderful to be home at last."

Pte. T. Dombroski of Waskatana, was wounded in the left arm by machine gun fire at Ortona. He spent months in hospital in Italy and England before being returned to Canada. "After four years overseas I'm really happy to be home—it seems like such a long time I've been away," he said.

Pte. P. Anderson of Tawinaw, still wearing his right arm in a plaster cast because of a fracture he received at the battle of the Moro River was jubilant about his arrival home just in time to celebrate his twenty-fifth birthday Wednesday.

DOVE FOR TRENCH

"I was sitting having breakfast when I heard a whistle and a dove for a trench. It's a lucky thing I did or I would be here to tell you," he added. "Jerry was at the trench and I was in the trench and one of my shells went a little way and I was in the trench."

Other Edmonton and district men returned from overseas who were scheduled to arrive here Tuesday include Sgt. S. Fajurichuk, Pte. J. Humber, Sgt. J. Humber, and Pte. D. V. Wells, Wainman; Pte. L. Bourdon, Beaverlodge; Sgt. V. L. Brons, Vegreville; Cpl. C. M. G. Peace River; Sgt. B. J. Mondschmidt, Vegreville, and Pte. M. Schmidt, Vegreville.

Improve Overseas Air Mail Service

A further improvement of Trans-Atlantic air mail service is being effected according to an announcement by Postmaster General Mulock.

A point has been reached whereby citizens are assured of service several times a week to the United Kingdom for air mail prepaid at the regular Trans-Atlantic rate of 30 cents for half an ounce.

The new schedule will provide an additional link with the old land for the exchange of civilian goods and supplies, and will facilitate the movement of the ever-growing mail volume overseas.

Coming of summer bringing with it improved flying conditions, in schedule and efficiency in operation.

War time restrictions prohibit the publication of the dates and times of departure of civilian mail.

In preparing overseas air mail the public should bear in mind that the use of light weight stationery saves valuable space in the mail, and that the use of light weight stationery saves the sender money in postage.

It is suggested that air mail to civilians in the United Kingdom bear the usual air mail sticker and be endorsed "Via Trans-Atlantic Air Mail."
